

Delaware business achievers

The News Journal • March 14, 2010

Amid the struggling economy, Delaware individuals and companies continue the advancement of regional job markets with new hires, promotions and awards. Here are examples.

ACCOUNTING

Belfint, Lyons & Shuman, P.A., a certified public accounting and consulting firm in Wilmington, announce that Kathy Dean-Bradley passed the uniform certified public accountant exam and has received her CPA designation. Dean-Bradley is a senior accountant in the firm's Tax & Small Business department and started working at the firm in 2006. A graduate of Cornell University and Colorado State University, she is a member of the Delaware Medical Group Management Association, the Delaware Society of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

LAW

Potter Anderson & Corroon in Wilmington announced that Donald J. Wolfe Jr., chairman of the firm and a partner in the firm's Corporate Group, has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers. Wolfe's practice concentrates on corporate litigation in the Court of Chancery and counseling of boards of directors and special board committees of Delaware corporations. Fellowship to this organization is extended only by invitation and membership is limited to no more than one percent of the total lawyer population of any state.

NONPROFIT

Former U.S. Attorney Carl Schnee is this year's recipient of the 21st Century Fund for Delaware's Children Muriel E. Gilman Award. Schnee currently chairs the Ferris School Art Committee and serves with the Juvenile Justice Collaborative. He was chairman of the New Castle County Juvenile Detention Center Committee that planned and constructed the center. He was appointed U.S. Attorney for Delaware by President Bill Clinton. The award was established as a tribute to Muriel Gilman for her public service and volunteerism working directly to improve the lives of children. The 21st Century Fund of Delaware annually recognizes the contributions to the well-being of Delaware's children.

SERVICE

Delaware Hospice announced the appointment of Jennifer (J.J.) Davis to its board of trustees. Davis currently serves as vice president for administration at the University of Delaware and was previously Cabinet secretary and director of the Office of Management and Budget for the state of Delaware.

Michael F. Behringer has been named business solutions specialist for the U.S. Postal Service. Behringer, a Rehoboth Beach resident and a 25-year veteran of the USPS, has served in various managerial positions, including supervisor of customer services in Wilmington and Newark post offices, south New Jersey district communications specialist and most recently as officer in charge at the Montchanin post office.

OTHER NOTABLES
